

at each node:

- choose some ball-subset of variables at random
- find a variable (and a value for the variable) which optimizes the split